PAYS $30 FOR BLOCKING STREET

Allowed Train to Remain on Gettysburg Street Crossing too Long. Engineer Suffers as Result of Law Governing the Case.

Eugene Miller, a Western Maryland freight engineer, was given a fine of $25.00 and costs of $5.50 on Friday by Squire Hill for blocking the railroad crossing on Carlisle street for about twenty minutes on October 2. The information was laid by Officer Emmons.

Mr. Miller admitted the charge but contended that he was not to blame for the blocking of the street. The engineer claimed that he understood the crew had "cut" the train at all the crossings. The Act of Assembly governing the offense, however, declares that where the street is blocked the engineer shall be held responsible and subjected to a fine of $25. In case he is unable to pay, the railroad company shall then make the amount good.

At the time of the offense in October Mr. Miller was running engine 617, drawing a freight train, and had cleared the Washington street crossing. He allowed the train to stand, hinking that the crossing at Carlisle street was also unobstructed and as a result traffic was blocked for some time.

Mr. Miller has a number of friends in town who regret that he suffered from the action, in view of his apparent innocence in the case but the law governing the matter left no other course open. Contrary to general impression, no time limit is allowed for trains to stand and block crossings and the time apparently plays little part.

LOAD UPSET

Thomas McIntyre Has an Unpleasant Experience.

Thomas McIntyre, a farmer on one of the Johns farms, near Mt. Rock, met with an accident in Hanover on Thursday, resulting in the breaking of the farm wagon and the upsetting of a load of wheat. The accident occurred on High street. An automobile coming up the street frightened the horses and they wheeled sharply around, breaking the front wheels of the wagon and upsetting the load of wheat. The horses were caught before they got away. No blame is placed on the driver of the auto, as he was going at moderate speed.

HAS LOCK JAW

Young Man Gets Hand in Corn Shelter with Ugly Result.

Although in a critical condition hopes are entertained for his recovery.

STILL FIGHTING FOR LINCOLN WAY

House of Representatives Scene of Spirited Argument in Effort to Defeat Greek Temple Memorial to Martyr President.

Lincoln memorial highway advocates, led by Congressman Borland, of Missouri, and Linthicum and Lewis, of Maryland, are fighting to prevent the House from approving the plans for the Greek temple memorial to the martyred President, which have been approved by the Lincoln Memorial Commission and adopted by the Senate.

The Marylanders are urging the construction of a highway from Washington to Gettysburg as a substitute. The two projects were up in the House Friday.

The Greek temple advocates won by having the Senate memorial bill taken from the House Appropriations Committee and referred to the Library Committee by a vote of 112 to 90.

"We are greatly encouraged by the narrowness of the vote," said Mr. Linthicum. "Technically the bill should go to the Library Committee, and many members voted against us who are opposed to the Greek temple idea. We believe we will be able to defeat the temple project when it comes up on its merits in the House."

Should the highway advocates win, a magnificent roadway, costing $1,600,000, will be constructed from Washington through Montgomery, Howard and Carroll counties, Maryland, to Gettysburg. It would be 70 miles long, and a beautiful memorial arch would be erected at the point where it leaves Maryland into the District of Columbia. An arch would also be constructed at this end.

The proposed highway would leave the District of Columbia at Sixteenth and Seventh streets, following the old Union turnpike to Gettysburg, passing through the towns of Sandy Springs, Brookville, Sunshine and Westminster, in Maryland.

The Greek temple memorial, as designed by Henry Bacon, would be erected at the foot of Mall, near the Potomac river. It would be 150 feet high and 1,000 feet in diameter, costing $2,000,000.

MAD DOG MATTER IS EXPLAINED

Mr. Stahle, Attorney for Poor Directors, Makes Further Statement Regarding County's Liability for Pasteur Treatment Expenses.

Charles E. Stahle, Esq., attorney for the Directors of the Poor, has the following additional statement for the benefit of those concerned in the existing mad dog scare in the county.

From information I have received I feel that the position of the Directors of the Poor regarding requests for aid by persons who have been bitten by animals suffering from rabies, under the act of 1907 which provides for such aid including the Pasteur treatment, is not fully understood.

In a former statement I assigned two reasons for the refusal of the Board of Directors to pay the bills for treatment in the cases then under consideration.

The first was a question as to the constitutionality of the act, which question is occasioned by an opinion of Judge McConnell, of Westmoreland Co., in which it is declared to be unconstitutional. The second was the fact that the contract for the treatment was made by the parties themselves without the knowledge of the Directors of Poor or authority from them, under which circumstances liability does not fall upon the poor-district, unless it should be decided that there is such emergency in these cases as to preclude consultation with the officers of the poor-district and proof of the facts.

In Koehenour vs. Cumberland County Poor District, Judge Sadler says:

"While the act is notably humane and beneficial, we have no power to extend its provisions beyond what the statute provides. Were it left to the discretion of any one to send a patient to a distant hospital and thereby render the poor district liable, it is easy to conceive of abuses which might arise."

In Mason vs. Carbondale Poor District Judge Newcomb holds:

"To provide proper medical attention, whether the Pasteur treatment or otherwise, is one thing; to reimburse those who make their own provisions in the matter without the knowledge, much less consent, of the directors, is quite another thing."

As will be appreciated, a great deal of responsibility rests with the directors of the poor, especially when applicants for aid are unable to provide for themselves, and the benefit of any doubt should be given to those in need.

When, therefore, application is made for assistance, prior to the taking of the treatment, accompanied by proof of such facts as the statute requires, I believe that the request should be granted, at the expense of the poor district, pending a final decision on the constitutionality of the act in question.

STATISTICS HELP STOCK GAMBLERS

So Farmers are Told at Institute in the Court House. Small Attendance and Interest at Low Ebb. State Department Work.

"Agricultural statistics are, in my mind, of more benefit to the stock gambler than to the farmer," said W. Theodore Wittman, one of the state lecturers at the farmers' institute in session in the Court House today. "This is true at least with regard to the totals of crops produced and the value of stock of various kinds."

"The statistics frequently do not show the real state of affairs at all. For instance, if a farmer raises a certain amount of corn which he feeds to his hogs and then sells those hogs, he cannot show the value of his work by adding the corn and the sale price of the hogs together. He can only lay claim to the latter for the corn went to produce the result. In government statistics we get both, whereas one is really the product of the other."

The meetings started in the Court House on Friday afternoon with a full corps of lecturers sent by the State Department of Agriculture here. They came to Gettysburg after conducting similar meetings in New Oxford. The sessions here are attended by scarcely a score of people and many of these are Gettysburg citizens so that the efforts of the lecturers are not reaching the parties for whom the work is intended.

Friday evening the weather was severe enough to keep down the attendance to a mere handful and little interest seems to be taken. This is in no way the fault of the instructors, apparently, for they are thoroughly at home in their topics and have talks and charts of much interest and value to those engaged in agriculture.

CONGRESSMAN LEAPS OFF SHIP

Wedemeyer, "Crazed on Trip to Panama, a Suicide.

SENATOR JEFF DAVIS DIES

Arkansas Statesman Was Stricken With Apoplexy During Visit to Little Rock—James R. Keene Dies After Operation.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Congressman William W. Wedemeyer, of Ann Arbor, Mich., who suddenly went insane at Colon, Panama, at the time of President Taft's recent visit to the Isthmus, jumped overboard from a ship on which he had been taken at Colon. His body has not been recovered.

Mr. Wedemeyer went to the Isthmus with a congressional party at the same time that the president visited there. On the voyage from New York he collapsed and was taken to a sanatorium in Panama, and later was placed in confinement in a hospital, where he became violent and raved about his defeat at the recent election. He developed a suicidal tendency and was closely watched.

Wedemeyer's friends say that a few days before leaving for the Isthmus he fell and struck his head on an icy pavement. It was thought that he was not injured, and the mishap did not deter him from going with the congressional party.

Senator Jeff Davis Dies.

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 3.—United States Senator Jeff Davis died suddenly at his home here of apoplexy, in his first year.

Senator Davis complained of feeling badly Thursday, but the family physician did not regard his condition as serious.

Early Friday morning the senator called to his son, who was in an adjoining room, that he was ill and to summon a physician.

A doctor arrived in half an hour. As he entered the room Senator Davis fell back dead. Up to the time he called his son, Senator Davis had apparently slept soundly.

The senator when he returned home from Washington for the holidays seemed in his usual health, and Thursday was out on the streets. He had not been feeling well, however, for several months. During his last political campaign in September there was general comment on the fact that he did not use the vigorous methods that characterized his earlier campaigns.

JAMES R. KEENE DIES

America's Most Spectacular Speculator Passes Away.

New York, Jan. 4.—James R. Keene, the financier and horseman, died in a sanitarium here from the effects of an operation.

Mr. Keene was seventy-three years old and had been ill for a long time. He was the father of Foxhall Keene, one of the greatest of American polo players.

James R. Keene, one time owner of the most famous string of race horses in the United States and the most spectacular speculator on the New York stock exchange, was born in London, Eng., in 1838. At the time of his death he was reputed to be worth $10,000,000 to $40,000,000.

It was perhaps as a horseman that the financier was best known to the public at large. From 1905 to 1909 his colors each year headed the list of winning owners by a wide margin, while his Castleton stud, in addition to furnishing practically all of the horses in training, sent many another famous race horse to the races.

Duke of Abercorn Dies.

London, Jan. 4.—James Hamilton, the second Duke of Abercorn, and head of the house of Hamilton, died here of pneumonia.

The duke was born Aug. 24, 1838. His heir is the present Marquis of Hamilton.

The Duke of Abercorn enjoys, in addition to several other unique privileges, that of being one of the only three British nobles who possess distinct peerages in three kingdoms, and he is in France Duc De Chateaufort.

Dr. E. O. Lyte Is Dead.

Lancaster, Pa., Jan. 4.—Dr. E. O. Lyte, who was principal of the Millersville State Normal school for many years, died here, aged seventy years. He was a former president of the State Teachers' association and the National Educational association. He was an author of text books and a lecturer. He retired from the principal ship of the normal school several years ago on account of illness.

Railway Head Found Dead.

New York, Jan. 4.—Russell Miller, chairman of the board of directors of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, died suddenly. The news of his death became public first through Wall street agencies. He was found dead in bed at his home.

Sends a Doll to Wilson.

Bolivar, Tenn., Jan. 4.—Little Annie Littleton, an ardent admirer of the president-elect, sent a doll to Governor Wilson, with the request, that it be taken to the White House "to play" with the executive's youthful visitors.

Higher Court Demands $10,000 For Each Year of Sentence.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—A writ of superseas, staying execution of the sentences imposed upon the dynamite conspirators recently convicted at Indianapolis, was issued by the United States circuit court of appeals here.

Bail was based on the number of years which the prisoners had been sentenced to serve—$10,000 for each year. Thus Ryan's bail was fixed at $70,000. Those who received sentences of six years must furnish $60,000; four years, $40,000, and so on down to $10,000 for the one-year sentences.

According to the defense lawyers, the court, Judges Seaman and Baker sitting, seemed most impressed by the extradition feature of the arguments presented. These lawyers stated that money enough to admit all to bail will be forthcoming.

The bonds are among the heaviest ever fixed by the federal courts in Chicago. Judge Baker called attention to the fact that the crimes of conspiracy for which the men were convicted is not numbered among the extraditable offenses. "If these men leave the jurisdiction they cannot be brought back. Therefore their bail should be heavy," Judge Baker ruled.

The court, however, in deciding the application for the writ fixed the amount of bail bonds according to the term of imprisonment each of the defendants was sentenced to serve.

REID'S BODY ARRIVES

Brought by British Cruiser and Conveyed by U. S. Fighters.

New York, Jan. 4.—The body of Whitelaw Reid, United States ambassador to England, was brought home by the British cruiser Natal, conveyed by a guard of American warships.

The cruiser came slowly up the lower bay and harbor in a dense fog and dropped anchor in the Hudson off West Ninety-eighth street.

As she did so she fired an ambassador's salute of nineteen guns and broke out the British Union Jack at her bow and the British naval ensign at her stern. High above them floated the Stars and Stripes at half mast on the military mast.

The Florida returned the Natal's salute of nineteen guns and, as did the other ships in the cortege, broke the English ensign at her military mast.

BULGAR KING TALKS FIGHT

Paris Hears Adrianople Has Yielded to Besiegers.

ALLIES TO ISSUE ULTIMATUM

Tired of Delay, They Will Allow Turkey Twenty-four Hours to Cede Adrianople.

London, Jan. 4.—King Ferdinand of Bulgaria in the course of an address at Sofia made some very significant remarks upon the situation which are regarded in many quarters as a threat that the war may be resumed.

After expressing the hope that an agreement might still be reached by the peace conference now being held in London, he said: "We will not hesitate at a new recourse to arms to compel the enemy to give complete and equitable satisfaction for all our precious sacrifices."

As the peace envoys of the Balkan states and Turkey were about to resume their sessions a rumor came from Paris that the Turkish fortress of Adrianople had fallen into the hands of the besiegers. The report was current on the Bourse there.

Advices received by the Serbian peace delegation indicated that the condition of Adrianople was desperate and its capitulation was perhaps only a question of hours.

Word comes from Athens that the Turkish garrison of the Island of Chios, numbering 2000 men of all arms, surrendered unconditionally to the Greek troops.

The Turkish sailing vessel Theodoros, of 650 tons, was blown up by coming in contact with a floating mine at the entrance to Smyrna bay, Asiatic Turkey.

On top of these apparent disasters to the Turks the Balkan peace envoys decided, it was declared, to put the direct question to the Turkish delegation whether the Ottoman government is prepared to cede the fortress of Adrianople forthwith.

In the event of the Turks giving an indecisive answer, the Balkan allies will grant them a period of twenty-four hours, and if their reply at the end of that time is unfavorable, the conference will be suspended. No other question will be considered by the allies until this point has been settled.

Representatives of the Albanian provisional government sent to the British foreign office a map on which the future frontiers of Albania as desired by them were marked. If accepted this would deprive Greece, Serbia and Montenegro of half of the territories they have conquered since the beginning of hostilities.

Austria-Hungary and Italy are making preparations to land a joint expeditionary force in Albania immediately after the close of the London conference, according to the Wiener Journal of Vienna.

WOMEN TO FIGHT FOR VOTES

Open Headquarters at Harrisburg and Plan Campaign.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 4.—The Woman Suffrage association's headquarters for the coming session were opened here, and the legislative committee held a long session in preparation for submission of the resolution for a constitutional amendment to the legislature.

The women were very much in earnest, and while not planning any demonstration will attend the sessions of the legislature and do active work in behalf of their cause.

"With all political parties committed to the movement, prospects are radiant for the success of woman suffrage in Pennsylvania at this session of the legislature," said Mrs. Frank Roessing, of Pittsburgh, president of the association. "Leaders of the movement from all points are gathering here and committees are rapidly shaping plans to storm the legislators on their arrival in the city next week. Never before in the history of the state have conditions been so favorable to women and those in charge foresee success for their efforts at no distant day."

ROCKEFELLER IS NOW WILLING TO TESTIFY

Agrees to Accept Service of Money Probers' Subpoena.

New York, Jan. 4.—William Rockefeller has agreed through his counsel, John A. Garver, to accept service of a subpoena to appear on Jan. 13 before the Pujos committee of the house of representatives at Washington investigating the "money trust," according to announcement made at the offices of Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the committee.

Mr. Untermyer in behalf of the committee, it was stated by the direction of Chairman Pujos, has accepted this offer.

No intimation of the whereabouts of Mr. Rockefeller was contained in the statement.

Sergeant-at-Arms Riddell, of the house of representatives, made a formal demand at the house of Mr. Rockefeller before the announcement was made for a definite answer as to whether Mr. Rockefeller was there.

Preliminary investigation of the report that Mr. Rockefeller had been at Jekyll Island has been begun, Mr. Riddell said. A man has been sent there, he added, but has not yet been heard from.

"I still think, however, that Mr. Rockefeller is here," Mr. Riddell said, "and I shall keep my men around his house until I learn positively that he is not."

BAILEY RESIGNS FROM THE SENATE

He Will be Succeeded by R. M. Johnson.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Senator Joseph W. Bailey, of Texas, who sang his "swan song" Thursday, resigned from the United States senate.

This action was expected, although Mr. Bailey said that he might not offer his resignation for several days, so that it would not detract from his speech in which he defended the constitution and assailed the plan of direct legislation as proposed in the initiative, referendum and recall.

Mr. Bailey will be succeeded by his closest personal and political friend, Colonel R. M. Johnson, Democratic national committeeman from Texas. Johnson will hold the seat till March 4, when the term for which Bailey was elected will expire.

THREE BIG STORMS SWEEP COUNTRY

Great Damage Reported From All Sections.

PHILADELPHIA IS HARD HIT

Gale Hits Quaker City and Eleven Persons Are Injured by Falling Wall. From Other Places.

Philadelphia, Jan. 4.—A gale from the southwest, which blew with an average velocity of fifty-four miles an hour, caused damage in all parts of the city and was responsible for the more or less serious injury to eleven men who were caught in the crash of walls and buildings blown down by the wind.

Because of the havoc wrought during the day it is regarded as the worst wind storm which the city has suffered in many years.

The Delaware river threatened momentarily to overflow its banks and to inundate the avenues along the water front, flooding cellars and adding to the general damage.

At low water the river, normally very low, was within two feet of the top of the bulkheads and with the incoming tide the water started to creep upwards until it was within a few inches of the level of Delaware avenue.

The tide always causes a rise of six feet in the river. It was feared Delaware avenue would be under water.

The most serious accident occurred when the upper portion of a four-story building at 413 South Fifth street was blown over and went crashing through the roof and floors of the three-story factory building at 411, in which more than fifty men and girls were working. Five persons were seriously injured.

The collapse came without warning. The upper portion of the adjoining building was weakened by a fire several weeks ago and it was an easy victim for the wind. A mass of bricks and timbers went crashing through the roof of the smaller building and carried everything with it to the basement, leaving a great jagged hole. Those in the building attribute the escape of all from death due to the fact that the whole of the debris did not come down at once in several large masses, which gave most of the men and girls an opportunity to get out of the way.

The general damage from the storm was very great and was spread all over the city. The wind was probably at its worst in the narrow canyons formed by high buildings in the central part of the city. Men and women were blown about at the will of the wind and a number were knocked down by its force and slightly injured. There were more injuries to dignity than one count could.

Death and Destruction by Winds.

Laurel, Del., Jan. 4.—Two oyster boats are reported to have been sunk in the lower Nantuxoke and six men drowned by the terrific gale which has prevailed here. It is feared that many other boats have been driven upon the shore or sunk and that there may be great loss of life. A large barn on the Cyrus Benson farm, near here, was picked up and blown on top of the kitchen house. John Smithers and a farm laborer were probably fatally injured when a building in which they had taken refuge was wrecked.

THREE BIG STORMS

Wire Communication Paralyzed and Much Property Destroyed.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Fierce storms of extraordinary violence swept three widely separated portions of the country, paralyzing wire communication, doing property damage and menacing shipping on the Atlantic coast.

In the middle west a fierce wind storm leveled wires between New York and Chicago, and in the far west states of Washington and Oregon communication was partially paralyzed by another fierce gale.

Another storm, central in Virginia, swept the Chesapeake bay and Hampton Roads and partially submerged the shipping section of Newport News with water from the James river. Battleships of the Atlantic fleet at anchor there kept their moorings with difficulty, but their launches and small boats attempting landings were at once swamped. Large quantities of freight on the piers were swept into the sea.

Windows in large hotels at Old Point Comfort were blown in and the beaches about the Virginia Capes were strewn with wreckage of small craft. Revenue cutters patrolling the Capes expect to find loss of life. The wind reached sixty miles an hour.

The old frigate Jamestown, for many years quarantine ship in Hampton Roads, was destroyed by fire during the storm. She was being dismantled and the wreckers were rescued with difficulty. The Jamestown had a varied career in the Civil War and after.
